

Sinclair Broadcasting has taken American media to a new low by announcing that it will pre-empt regular programming on the eve of the presidential election to show a so-called documentary about John Kerry. Their ploy is simply to air an anti-Kerry ad on the public airwaves, while calling it something else. This sort of thing has never been done in America, and never should be. Make them give Kerry equal time-it is the American way.